Invitation

Conferences should be stimulating, and this not only for the participants but also for accompanying persons. We would like to use the 14th ASIM Dedicated Conference at the Karlsruhe Institute of Technology, the former University of Karlsruhe, to invite you to a accompanying persons' program. It gives you the opportunity to joint the social parts of the conference, i.e. the opening meeting on the evening before, the lecture on the evolution of human resource management and the evening event at the baroque castle of Ettlingen, including buffet dinner and a tour around the castle.

While your professional counterpart listens to new information you will get to know the Baden-Baden Opera House and the Kurhaus on the first day. The State Majolica or the park around the Karlsruhe castle then waits for you on the second day. Our accompanying persons' program is open to you. My wife will be happy to welcome you.
